CORPORATE AVATAR: OFF DUTY

A 24-HOUR NEW YORK EXPERIENCE ABOUT CLOTHES, IDENTITY, WORK, CULTURE & LIFE.

YOU NEED CLOTHES FOR LIFE.

Every day, we dress for something.
Work. School. A first date. A doctor's appointment. A job interview.
Dinner. The grocery store. A party. The gym. A flight home.
We have a corporate avatar.
But who are you when you're off duty?
Every day, we dress for something.
Work. School. A first date. A doctor's appointment. A job interview.
Dinner. The grocery store. A party. The gym. A flight home.
We have a corporate avatar. A school avatar. A social avatar. A version of ourselves for almost every room we enter.
But who are you when you're off duty?
Corporate Avatar: Off Duty is a 24-hour live cultural experience exploring the relationship between clothing and the many versions of ourselves.
Broadcast from New York City, the experience moves from morning to night and back again—through closets, workplaces, streets, makers, stylists, creators, commerce, conversation, nightlife, rest and sunrise.
This is not simply a fashion event.
It is a conversation about how we present ourselves, how we are perceived, what clothing makes possible, and what happens to the clothes—and identities—we leave behind.
